WPN

What's New on WPN

WORLD PERCUSSION NETWORK

By Norm Weinberg

Well, it's finally here! In the LIBRARY section of the FILES area of the WPN: A listing of articles from back issues of Percussive Notes! The file is called "PERCNOTE.TXT" and it is a "tab-delineated" text file, so you can work with it in a variety of ways:

Once downloaded, you can open it in your word processor, print it out, and/or use the "Find" command to search for an author or topic. You can import the file into your database program, giving you full capabilities for sorting, searching, or printing. For those of you who use a spreadsheet as a database program, you can import this file directly into your spreadsheet.

The file contains the following fields (they have already been sorted): Topic, Author, Title, Volume, Number, Date, Page. Check your software's manual concerning importing tab-delineated text files into your program. Just about every database and spreadsheet program on any computer platform (IBM, Mac, Amiga, Atari, etc) supports this standard. There should be some information in your manual regarding importing data into your program.

To download the file, log on to the WPN. Then:

1) Type "F" to move to the FILES area of the WPN.
2) Type "Lib" to move to the LIBRARY directory within FILES.
3) Type "D" to download a file.
4) Type "PERCNOTE.TXT" when the WPN asks for the name of the file.
5) Type "Y" or "N" when the WPN asks you if you wish to log off after the download.
6) Now, tell your communications software that you wish to download a file. The command may be called "Receive File", "Download", or have some other name depending on your communication software. Check your communication software's manual for further instructions on downloading. If is this your first time to download any material from the WPN, you may want to try downloading a smaller file first.

Also in the LIBRARY area is another text file called "DOWNLOAD.TXT". This is a short text file that you can download to try out the procedure and make sure that your communication system is operating properly with the WPN's system. If you have trouble working with these files, please leave Norm Weinberg a mail message and we'll get everything fixed up for you.

Special thanks to Larry White, Marvin Sparks, Scott Corey and John Floyd for compiling this information and offering it to the Percussive Arts Society membership through the World Percussion Network!